Rising Demand
The vision of the iCity initiative is to stimulate the interest of teenagers by highlighting ICT as an agent of change and the decisive factor fuelling the engine of growth in a knowledge-based economy. Students in higher forms are just beginning to become interested in social affairs and are exploring their future roles and responsibilities in the society. The message to encourage them to pursue ICT studies must therefore include not just financial reward in career development, but place emphasis on the power of ICT innovations to induce and influence change in the society and to make a difference.

VINT CERF
FATHER OF THE INTERNET
互聯網之父
The Internet... exposes truth to those who wish to see it. [But some] fear the Internet and its ability to make the truth known. ...the power of the Internet is like a two-edged sword. It can also deliver misinformation and uncorroborated opinion with equal ease. The thoughtful and the thoughtless co-exist side by side in the Internet's electronic universe...

There are no electronic filters that separate truth from fiction... We have but one tool to apply: critical thinking... We truly must think about what we see and hear. We must evaluate and select. We must choose our guides. What better lesson than this to teach our young children to prepare them for a new century of social, economic and technological change?

Let us make a new Century resolution to teach our children to think more deeply about what they see and hear. That, more than any electronic filter, will build a foundation upon which truth can stand.

Yes, you.
You control the Information Age.
Welcome to your world.
CALLING: DIGITAL NATIVES
“Ask not what your country can do for you, Ask what you can do for your country.”
Ask not what the Internet will do for you, Ask what TOGETHER we can do for the Internet.

不要問互聯網能為你做些什麼，應想想我們能一起為互聯網做些什麼。
